HUGHES' CLAIMS

Secretary Sets Forth Desires of America in Territorial Awards—
Oil Question Not Taken up.

Washington, Sept. 7.—There is now every reason for confidence that Secretary of State Hughes is destined to win all that he has contended for in the dispute with the Allies over the disposition of the territories ceded by Germany and its allies to the principal victors of the World War.

The justice of Mr. Hughes' contention that America, by virtue of its contribution to the victory, possesses an alienable interest in the former German colonies and is entitled to equal rights in the territory ceded by Turkey already has been conceded by the Allies. They set out to ignore the United States in the formulation of the mandates for these territories ostensibly because America was not represented in the Supreme Council, and they paid no attention to the Wilson Administration's protest against approval of the Japanese mandate by the League of Nations Council, ostensibly because America was not represented in the League.

When Mr. Hughes took the matter in hand, however, the Allies changed their attitude. He demonstrated that the Allies in ignoring the United States, were violating a provision of the Versailles treaty and were depriving the United States of right conferred by that treaty which were unimpaired by the failure of America to ratify that contract.

Thereupon the Allies asked the United States to state what changes it desired in the drafts of the "A" mandates for Mesopotamia and other former Turkish territories, and of the "B" mandates for former German possessions in Africa, which classes of mandates are awaiting the approval of the League of Nations Council. The Allies also indicated their willingness to revise the terms of the "C" mandates for the Pacific Islands, proposed by the League Council in December, 1920, in such manner as might be agreed upon by the United States and Japan in the discussion of the disposition of Yap, the cable and radio center in the Pacific.

The note dispatched by Mr. Hughes to the Allies last week sets forth in detail the changes the United States desires made in the provisions of the "A" and "B" mandates, so as to protect American interests.

In a general way Mr. Hughes in this note insists on such revision of the mandates as shall eliminate any possible discrimination against the United States and its nationalists in the mandated territories because America is not a member of the League of Nations.

Furthermore, he insists that in regard to commercial concessions in these territories there shall be no discrimination or monopolies and that the open door for American commercial enterprises shall be maintained.

The capitulatory rights provided in some of the mandates until governments fully protective of foreign rights and interests are established. Mr. Hughes also suggests should be included in other mandates. Likewise he proposes that the provisions protective of missionaries and their activities be broadened in some of the mandates in which they were more narrowly drawn than in others.

The note is based upon the policy of asking no territory or other tangible possessions for the United States, but insisting on the guarantee to America of the same rights as the Allied powers and the members of the League of Nations in the mandated territories, despite the fact that the United States is not a member of the League.

The right of the United States to a voice in the disposition of Mesopotamia and other former Turkish possessions, although a stake was never declared, is based on the reasoning that the victory over Turkey is inseparable from the victory over the Germans, to which the United States contributed. It is assumed by Mr. Hughes that the Allies do not desire to ignore such fundamental principles or to use mandates as vehicles of discrimination.

The question of oil and other concessions in Mesopotamia, which Great Britain and France have taken steps to control, to the exclusion of American enterprise, is not dealt with in the note except in principle.

To Visit Lodges Tomorrow And Friday Night

Mrs. Mary Palmer of Norfolk, president of the Virginia Assembly of Rebekahs, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock will pay a visit to Liberty Lodge of Rebekahs of this city in Old Fellows' Hall and Friday night at 7:30 o'clock she will visit Samarian Rebekah Lodge No. 27 of this city. EMPLOYMENT SITUATION IN VIRGINIA IMPROVES

Fifteen railroad companies, with headquarters in the South Atlantic District No. 5, including the States of Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, report to Ralph Lizard, district director of the United States Employment Bureau, that between June 30 and July 31, 20,268 employees were replaced on their working forces, bringing the total up to 225,913.

The 310 textile mills in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia report from July 15 to August 15 an increase of 2,871 employees re-engaged, bringing the total to 99,005. The twenty-five textile mills in Virginia report 10,110 employed, an increase for the month of 392, while coal mining shows a reduction in employment.

Sixty-five firms in Richmond employing less than 500 each report a total of 5,575 people employed on August 15, against 5,477 on July 15, an increase of ninety-eight. Twelve firms employing 500 or more show 10,898, a gain of 167 over last month.

Practically all building-trade workers in Richmond are employed, and a further gradual improvement is looked for. Lumber and its products are working full time, but with reduced forces. There are a few jobs for casual workers and common labor, and unemployment in that class is increasing, says the report.

Lynchburg reports practically no houses for rent and continued unemployment in all lines.

Petersburg says all industries are working on reduced time, and reports considerable unemployment, but with improvement of the Appomattox River Road work and construction projects at Hopewell to give employment to about 350, it is believed business will slowly improve.

Unemployment in Norfolk continues in various skilled trades and among ordinary laborers and clerical help. The building situation continues to show improvement.

Danville reports all plants running on practically full time, and local organizations are seeking to remedy the housing shortage, a building program being already under way. There is plenty of work for ordinary labor.

JAPAN AND U. S. BID FOR TWO ISLANDS

Santiago, Sept. 7.—From an authoritative source it has been learned that Japan and the United States are bidding against each other for the purchase of San Felix and San Ambrosia Islands from Chile, each desiring them for "coaling stations."

The government is making an effort to avoid publicity in the matter until it makes a decision, but a well-informed source reports that the United States is offering $100,000,000 for the two islands. The American offer appears to be excessive, considering the smallness of the islands, which are close to Coquimbo, but this is explained by the fact that they offer naval domination of this part of the Pacific.

It is also reported that Japan made an offer for the Easter Islands when it was learned that the United States was negotiating for their purchase.

Japan's efforts to buy the islands for which the United States is negotiating puts the Chilean government in a difficult situation, since a decision means choosing whether its best interests are in keeping close to the United States or to Japan, as it is believed unlikely that either will buy the islands unless assured that the other group will not be sold to its competitor.

Flood of Buying Orders Sends Cotton up $10

New York, Sept. 7.—A wild buying movement in cotton here yesterday advanced prices until the 200 point limit allowed for any one day's fluctuation was reached. October sold at 19.88 and December at 20.20. The market closed strong at a $10 a bale advance for the day.

The advance was precipitated by bullish Liverpool cables. The heaviest buying was for continental and trade account, reflecting a scare among mill interests over future supplies. Private advices from the belts reported further crop deterioration over the holidays.

A the Tidewater Fair Grounds races were held, and the mills and factories were closed for the day. A number of fans motored to Crittenden and went across to Newport News to the ball games. Others spent the day in fishing and visiting nearby resorts.

The golfers remained on the links about an hour and a half and then returned to the Mayflower which was anchored in Hampton Roads. They expected to leave for Washington last night.

After a short while a motorist, who had a revolver with him arrived and he piloted the parties home. At the scene of the attack the assailants were fired at and dispersed. Some of the cars were scarred by stones striking them: Local drivers are now reporting as arming themselves when they go that way. He pledged his party if placed in power to abolition of the payment of capitation taxes six months before election as prerequisite to the right to vote, promised a reduction in taxes and expressed opposition to the issuance of road bonds "under present conditions. The Republican county convention also held today named conditions for the state House of Delegates.

Cape Charles—The sweet potato season of the Eastern Shore of Virginia started off last week, but owing to the main Eastern markets being overstocked with sweets, conditions have not been favorable for high prices. Prevailing prices of sweet potatoes are so low that it is probable that many local growers will store their sweets. Warm weather and an avalanche of shipments from the South are said to be the contributing factors in the present overstocking of New York and Philadelphia markets. This week the prices quoted in New York market for sweet potatoes was $1.50 for bushel hampers and $4 per barrel, with Chicago prices being only slightly better.

Danville—The Danville Tobacco Association held an extended meeting yesterday afternoon, at which the recently amended by-laws were presented by action and were adopted after numerous changes had been made. A special committee presented the new regulations governing the market, but many of the most radical amendments were lost. An effort was made to have the employees of the warehouses place on the floor all of the tobacco instead of letting farmers and rehandlers do this. This was covered in another amendment, which makes the warehouses responsible for

Clarence Beall Says Bandit Took His
Car and $300 in Cash and Diamond
Ring

Clarence Beall, a public hacker of Washington, who lives at 501 Stanton Place, northeast, about 11 o'clock last night appeared at police headquarters and reported to Police Sergeant Wilkinson that he had been held up and robbed by a passenger he had taken in Washington. The highwayman according to Beall, contained $300 in cash, a diamond ring valued at $50, an alsa took his new Stutz car.

Beall told the police that early last night a strange man met him in front of the Raleigh Hotel, Washington, and told him to drive him to a certain point on the south of Alexandria.

According to Beall when he reached a point on the Camp Humphreys road, about a mile south of this city, his fare pulled a pistol from his pocket and commanded him to stop. Beall declares he was then ordered to place his hands behind his back and he says the bandit bound his wrists with wire. Afterward, according to Beall, he was compelled to walk a short distance into the woods nearby and lie down after which his ankles also were bound with wire. The highwayman then drove towards Mount Vernon, telling him he needed the machine for "another job" and at midnight would return in front of the Willard Hotel. Beall after considerable difficulty succeeded in freeing himself and walked to a police headquarters here and reported the affair and subsequently made a similar report to the Washington police.

He described the man who held him up as being about 25 years old, smooth face, wearing dark clothing, tan shoes and black bow tie.

BOOTLEGGER WRITES HE MAKES 550 PER CENT

Washington, Sept. 7.—Official information has reached the Department of Justice that bootlegging is a profitable business. With it came the tip that 500 per cent can be made in profits when fines rather than jail sentences are meted out for punishment.

Solicitor General James M. Beck delivered an address before the American Bar Association in Cincinnati last week on the "Spirit of Lawlessness." On his return to Washington he received a letter, dated Hartford, Conn., September 1 which read:

"In answer to your address on 'Spirit of Lawlessness,' I will positively state that the only remedy is justice. If you wish to purify this lawless world it will be simple if you use a jail sentence in place of a fine. 'At bootlegging I can make 500 per cent profit after paying fines, graft and bail. Then why should I worry about the thing that is considered a joke by those in the ring.'"

BLACK CAT BRINGS WOE

Joy Party of Five Hailed Into Court
—$70 in Fines—One Acquitted

A black cat was ascribed as responsible for the troubles of a joy party in an automobile who were taken in custody yesterday afternoon while in front of a King street luncheon, by Chief Goods when the case was called in the police court today before Justice W. S. Snow. Two young women and three men, all from Washington, comprised the party.

The cat got out of the automobile and the owner and driver of the car started to pursue the feline and then came the police it was testified and this brought the party to a sudden end.

It was testified that one of the young women in the car was reared back smoking a cigarette and her clothes were several inches higher than the prevailing style dictates as a result of her position; that another young man beside her appeared to be sleeping evidently having imbibed too freely in joy water; that a third party, a man smashed a bottle containing corn whisky near the machine.

Anyhow, the man who is alleged to have dropped the whisky forfeited $25 collateral. A second young man who it was charged had been drinking was fined $10 and the girl was fined $25 and the other $10. The owner of the car was acquitted. All hands paid their fines.

BUS TOPPLES THREE HURT

Twenty-Three Passengers
Aboard When Accident
Occurs

FALLS IN DITCH

Mad Scramble on Part of Passengers
For Exits as Machine Leaves the Road.

Three out of twenty-three persons who were passengers in bus No. 5 of the green line known as the Washington-Alexandria Transit Company, while the bus was enroute from Washington to this city at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon were injured when the bus was overturned into a ditch north of this city. Among those injured were Mrs. Agnes Wesley, 215 South Royal street and her guest Miss Ethel Moore and a man had his wrist dislocated. In addition several others were bruised and shaken up.

The accident happened on the new concrete road at North Braddock, about 150 yards east of the tracks of the Washington-Virginia Railway line. The bus was in charge of Albert Guerns. The machine was traveling at a reduced rate of speed on the new concrete road, only fourteen feet wide, and at the time the driver was close to the edge of the concrete, another bus passing at the time. The rear wheel of the bus it is stated slipped in the yellow mud causing the machine to topple over on its side with its cargo of human freight. There was a mad scramble on the part of the passengers for exits. Owing to the fact that the machine was going very slowly at the time and also that the distance from the road to the ditch where it fell was not more than four feet is responsible for so few persons being hurt.

Several hours afterward the bus was hoisted by a derrick and it was found that it was not much damaged and later it again was put into service.

The busses yesterday were using the new road instead of the Braddock road because repairs are being made to the crossing over the railway tracks at the Braddock road it is stated.

MCADOO PREDICTS VERY HARD WINTER

Chicago, Sept. 7.—William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, who was in Chicago today en route to Newton, Kans., says that with 6,000,000 men out of work now and more being laid off every day, the American people should realize they are facing a hard winter financially, and should prepare to meet it face to face.

"It is up to the Republican administration," said McAdoo. "They have had opportunity for the return of normalcy, although one must realize that it cannot be accomplished in a short time."

McAdoo said he did not believe that the harvesting of the crops would help materially, pointing out that farmers are "broke" now and that returns from the harvest will be less than in former years.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Sept. 7.—A nationwide questionnaire to determine the high cost of food to the consumer while producers are receiving low prices, is being conducted by the Agricultural Joint Commission, of which Representative Anderson, of Minnesota, is chairman. The commission was appointed to discover what is the matter with agriculture.

The questionnaire will be addressed to transportation officials, farm producers, wholesale and retail grocers and every other agency that deals with the production, transportation and marketing of food products. It is the belief of the commission there must be something radically wrong in a situation which results in so wide a spread between cost of production and price of distribution and they propose to find out what is the matter.

Will Sell Wooden Ships

Despite the attacks directed at the United States Shipping Board for its determination to sell the American fleet of wooden ships, built as a war emergency, it became known today that Chairman Lasker and the other members of the Board are going ahead with a program to close the deal sometime this week. It is the present arrangement that the wooden ships are to go for $2,100 apiece to the Ship Construction and Trading Company of New York City.

Investigate "Accountants"

The forthcoming cleanup of the tax division of the Internal Revenue Bureau, brought about as the result of a quiet investigation Commissioner Blair has been conducting for the past few weeks will probably include drastic action regarding the operations of alleged "fake" certified accountants' organizations which have sprung up in Washington since the income tax division reached its present enormous proportions.

According to reports of investigators these organizations have been issuing certificates without authority of law, there being no law in the District of Columbia covering certified accountants and have been issuing certificates to persons who have never passed any sort of an examination that would properly qualify them as accountants. Some of these alleged accountants are, according to the report of the investigators, former employees of the income tax division.

Fleet Ready For Practice

Starting today the American fleet in the Pacific will begin its fall maneuvers under a complete veil of secrecy. Never since the war has so much obscurity been thrown about fleet movements as will govern this practice routine. No reason is assigned for the new order of fleet practice, although the reason is assumed to lie in the necessity of trying out new units of the fleet under novel conditions. The fighting strength of the navy is now in the Pacific, where the big dreadnaughts, equipped with the latest facilities and the newest weapons will try out their fighting powers.

To Solve Mexican Problem

Settlement of the dispute which the Mexican government has had with oil producers in the Tampico district, following the decision of the Mexican Supreme Court, declaring Article 27 of the Constitution is not retroactive, opens the way for immediate solution of the Mexican problem. Accordingly, every effort will be made to reach an understanding with President Obregon and George T. Summerlin, American Charge at Mexico City has received new instructions relative to procedure with the Mexican government.

The case of Debs has been before the Department of Justice for some months now and its final disposition is soon to take place.
